

Emory's Undergraduate LGBTQ & Ally Group

Emory Pride is proud to announce the 2013 - 2014 Member of the Year Award. This award honors an individual who has made a strong commitment for making Emory Pride as well as the university a safe and inclusive place throughout the past year as an active participant in the organization. The Member of the Year Award winner will have demonstrated contributions that resulted in the creation or improvement of an inclusive, respectful, and safe climate for the LGBTQ community and their allies by furthering the mission of Emory Pride; and promoting acceptance, equality, and diversity in the Emory University community.

The award recognizes a member of Emory Pride who has made significant contributions and improvements at Emory University in one or more areas of:

- Active participation in the organization
- Commitment to make Emory a safe and inclusive place
- Furthering Emory Pride's mission to educate, advocate and create a social space for LGBTQ and ally students at Emory.

Nominations should include demonstrable examples of how the nominee has led and/or participated in one or more of the activities listed above.

Please note that nominations are open to all individuals regardless of sexual orientation or gender expression. Self-nominations are welcome. Executive board members are ineligible to win.
